

vast landscape

endless stretch of sky

beautiful, blue sky

immense, snow-capped mountains

Using the examples given above, create some of your own phrases for the picture. When you look at the examples above, can you tell which words are:

Nouns (People, place or thing)

Adjectives (describe the person, place or thing)

The Robin (short film)

While you are watching the film, think about:

- ❖ Where does the story take place?
- ❖ Who is in the story?
- ❖ What happens in the story?

This is a map of the robin's journey.

Let's look at how far the robin flew

Image: Europe Subregions, Kolja21, Wikimedia

These are the landscapes that the robin flew over. Can you write down some words which describe each of them?

What would you call these landscapes?

Image: Doodlaine, Nilsal Erik, Wikimedia

For ordering the story, you would have the opening, build up, climax and ending. The events in the story are on the right. Can you draw lines to match the correct event with the correct part of the story?

Opening		a) Robin flies over the stormy sea and is badly hurt
Build up		b) Robin returned home and is reunited with his friend
Climax		c) Robin set off on his journey from Scandinavia
Ending		d) Robin was almost caught by a much bigger bird

Now it's your turn, to write a sentence for each of the following pictures. I have given you some examples, and whilst you can of course magpie some words, you need to try and make the sentences your own as much as you can.

An example –

The little robin began his journey from an old, remote hut in the middle of the forest.

An example –

He flew high above the vast, misty lakes and past snow-capped mountains.

An example –

The poor little bird became soaking wet from the driving rain.