The British Museum

On Wednesday 4th December, 2019, Yr5 and Yr6 went to the British Museum to see the Egyptian collections. We spent most of the day there.

When we got off the coach, we had to be separated into groups. I was in Mrs Hepkey's group. Then we got handed a pamphlet and a pencil. The first thing we did was join groups with Mrs Gates, then headed to the statues. Before lunch, we saw the world famous Rosetta stone (it was busy so I only saw some hieroglyphics).

Just after lunch we visited some mummies (there were animals to!), was a mummy that had its bandages taken off, and he was called ginger. The next room had skulls and bones in a glass display case. One of the skulls had a fracture in it!

At the end of the trip , everyone was on the coach and ready to go home. In Watford, we saw the president and Donald Trump being driven in black cars being guarded by police motorbikes. All in all, I had a great time and I recommend it to anyone who is interested about geography and wants to find out more about countries.
